Frank Goodykoontz Memorial Hikes and Celebration Held

Family members of Frank Goodykoontz and friends gather on the summit of proposed Goodykoontz on Saturday, July 23, 2006. Twenty nine participated on two hikes. These were joined by a dozen others at Eagle Roost picnic site afterwards.

Hundred Peaks Section To Hold Annual Business Meeting September 13, 2005

All are welcome to attend our annual business meeting, which will be held at the Eaton Canyon Nature Center, located at 1750 N Altadena Dr in Pasadena. At this meeting nominations are finalized for next year’s Management Committee, proposals for Bylaw changes, peak additions and deletions, and other matters on which members will vote are discussed and decisions made on whether to put them on the ballot. The business meeting follows the monthly Management Committee meeting. Refreshments provided by the committee. To attend the business meeting only, arrive by 7 pm. The management meeting meets ½ hour earlier. Go north from I-210 on Altadena Dr approximately 1 ½ miles. Enter the Nature Center parking area on your right shortly after crossing New York Dr.

FROM THE CHAIR

SO WHERE’S WOLF?
As many of you may have noticed, I haven’t been out on a hike since late June. Reason is that, much to my surprise, I found out then that I had a stone the size of a marble bouncing around in my left kidney. I had one procedure in mid-July, and will have another in mid-August. If all goes well, I hope to be back on trail soon after that.

MORE IMPORTANTLY, WHERE ARE THE NEW LEADERS?
The next Leadership Training Program Seminar is on Saturday, October 1, in Griffith Park.
If you aren’t a leader, become one. It’s easy: take the Seminar, take a 4-hour CPR and a 4-hour First Aid course, and lead a provisional hike. That’s it. Less than three days of your time and you can have your “O” rating.

Even if you never want to publish a scheduled hike, having your rating is nice. Want to split off a fast group or a slow group on the way back to the cars? If you have your rating, you can make that happen. Want a hike to go, even if one of the leaders doesn’t show? If you have your rating, you can make that happen. Want a spiffy patch for your pack? You get that with your rating. Just want to understand why leaders do what they do? You’ll get that with your rating.

Signing up for the Seminar is easy. Just send all your usual contact information and a check for $25.00 payable to “Sierra Club” to: (Continued on next page)
I guarantee that the paperwork for getting your rating will go through quickly and easily, because my other Sierra Club job is LTC Admin Chair and I'm the guy who'll be assembling your file. LEADERS, you can help. If you see a competent participant who hasn't gotten their rating yet, suggest they take LTC. Forcefully. Threateningly waving a sturdy piece of deadfall or a large rock while delivering the message will often focus the attention of the recipient of your guidance.

Being serious, I carry a half-dozen slips of paper in my pack with Steve Botan's contact info, just to give hikers. The whole trick is to get folks interested and then make it easy for them to sign up.

AND WHERE ARE THE LEADERS WITH ADVANCED RATINGS?

Just a reminder: winter is the season for Nav, Rock, and Snow training. You can find the schedule for these activities far in advance by visiting:

http://angeles.sierracclub.org/ltc/

Even if you aren't working on an advanced leadership rating (or any rating at all), developing nav, rock, and snow skills will make your peakbagging safer and more interesting.

If you are an M or E leader, think about putting together some M and E outings on HPS peaks. To even get started working toward a mountaineering rating, the O and I leaders need opportunities to participate in a number of mountaineering outings.

OUTINGS ARE FLEXIBLE

We've been having unusual weather this year, and it has been hard on our outings. As a note to both leaders and participants, remember that we do have considerable flexibility to reschedule outings or change an outing's objectives.

As always, make sure when rescheduling a meet-and-go outing that someone is at the rideshare point to tell participants about the postponement. When changing objectives, make sure you do not increase the rating of the hike or otherwise materially change its nature.

LEADERS AND PARTICIPANTS, the Outings page on the HPS Website is a very useful resource. Leaders, you can contact the Outings Chair, Karen Isaacson Leverich <karen@mtpinos.com>, and she can make updates to the Outings page. Participants, it's always a good idea to check the Outings page just before leaving for an outing. Changes are often posted there.

AND HAVE FUN ...

It's summer, we can get to most of our peaks, and life is good. Go take a hike. And have fun. I'll see everyone on trail as soon as I can. - Wolf

Angeles Crest Highway Now Said to be Closed "Indefinitely" from Dawson Saddle to Vincent Gap

According to sources at Caltrans and at the USFS, the Angeles Crest Highway will be closed "indefinitely" between Dawson Saddle and Vincent Gap due to huge boulders on the highway and a washout that is said to have destroyed one lane. Caltrans is said to be working to clear the highway of numerous rock falls, but there is no estimate of when the road will be reopened.

As of this writing the highway remains closed at Ispip Saddle. As soon as it is opened, all of our traditional trail heads along the highway will become accessible, although the drive to Vincent Gap will be much longer for most.

Please check the HPS website for up to date information about the status of road conditions.

June 2005 Mountain Records Committee Report
By Wolf Leverich

02A LIGHTNER PEAK (from the Mountain Records Chair)

The final dirt road has been badly rain damaged. Stats actually remain unchanged for the longer route.

Replace:

- Drive 6.3 miles to the ridgeline, meeting 28S19 (dirt) on the right, signed "O'Brien Spring 2". Turn right.
- Drive 0.6 mile to a wide parking area on the left side (west) of 28S19, just before a sign "4X4 only". Park here.
- Drive 6.3 miles to the ridge line, meeting 28S19 (dirt) on the right, signed "O'Brien Spring 2". Park here.
- Competent 4WD vehicles with experienced drivers can proceed 1 mile toward O'Brien Spring. This saves 2 miles round trip and about 400' of gain.

Replace:

- From the parking area (5090'), hike north along the 4WD road about 1/2 mile to a grassy flat area before the road turns right and goes definitely downhill.
- From the parking area (5837'), hike north along the 4WD road about 1 mile to a grassy flat area (about 6160') before the road turns right and goes definitely downhill.

02E PINYON PEAK ROUTE 2 (kudos to Karen Leverich)

We've lost track of how to contact the private landowner, and it's not obvious that we still have permission to cross. Should we drop this route?

02E PINYON PEAK ROUTE 3 (kudos to Karen Leverich)

Distance: 6 miles round trip on trail and cross-country
Gain: 2500' total, 2250' out plus 250' on return
Time: 6 hours round trip
Rating: Class 1, moderate

Original: George? Byron? Can we leave this out?

DRIVING ROUTE 3

- Take SR 14 to Mojave
- Continue north on SR 14 to the intersection with SR 178 (Freeman Junction). - Reset your odometer and turn left (west) on SR 178.
- At 8.2 miles, cross Walker Pass.
- At 9.2 miles, pass Walker Pass Campground.
- At 8.7 miles, a warning sign (on the right side of the road) about a school bus stop in 500 feet. Park here or on the west side of the road.

HIKING ROUTE 3

- On the west side of the highway, find the beginning of the Pinyon Jack Trail (4820'). Follow this trail (vague in places) for about a mile. It crosses over a saddle (5020'+) then goes down to Jacks Creek.
- Turn right (north) and briefly follow the stream. It narrows a bit and usually can be easily crossed.
- Cross the stream and hike up the ridge you can see to the northwest. Follow about 2 miles to the summit.

02F SCODIE MOUNTAIN ALTERNATE ROUTE (kudos to Tom and Lynda Armbruster)

Change stats from:

12 miles round trip, 2300' of gain

to:

15 miles round trip, 2800' of gain
02Q WELDON PEAK ROUTE 1 (kudos to Tom and Lynda Armbruster)
In the driving directions, replace:
* At 18.2 miles, intersection. Go straight.
* Continue on this road as it begins to switchback up the hill (Geringer Grade). It soon comes to the top of the ridge and turns sharply right passing a dirt road on the left with a locked gate.
* Continue about 0.4 mile north of this locked gate. There is convenient parking on the right at an obscure junction with an old jeep road. This spot (UTM 250158) is just north of small bump 6385' shown on the USGS topo.

with:
* At 18.2 miles, intersection of Jawbone Cyn Rd and Kelso Valley Road. Go straight, continuing on Jawbone Cyn Rd.
* Continue on this road for 6.8 miles as it begins to switchback up the hill (Geringer Grade). It soon comes to the top of the ridge and turns sharply right, passing a dirt road on the left with a locked gate.
* Continue about 0.3 mile north of this locked gate. There is convenient parking on the right in an obscure junction with an old jeep road. This spot (UTM 250158) is just north of small bump 6385' shown on the USGS topo.

In the hiking directions:
The 3rd bullet should read 1/4 mile instead of 1-1/4 miles:
* Turn right on this road and follow it about 1/4 mile down to a fork.
The 4th bullet should read:
* Keep left here and continue on the main road past a locked cable gate, continuing for another 3/4 mile to where the road levels out at a junction (about 5600') which is marked "Casa de Oso". Take the right fork to stay on the main road for about 250 feet to where the PCT leaves the road on the left.

The 5th bullet should read:
* Follow the PCT for about 1/3 mile over a low ridge and down into the next significant gully. There may be a duck here.
The last bullet should say: "Casa de Oso" instead of "Casa de Oro", a hunting club.

04E TECUYA MOUNTAIN ROUTE 2 (from the MRCh)
Change the gain from 300' to 500'.
Change the starting elevation in the hiking route from 6855 to 6755.

29D THOMAS MOUNTAIN HIKING ROUTE 1 (kudos to Tom Hill)
Replace:
Hike southwest about 500' to the summit. There is usually no register. With:
Hike northwest along the ridgeline to the final campsite at the farthest NW extent of the camp road. The remnants of the benchmark are conspicuously found on the flat rock 3 feet east of the campsite post. There is usually no register.

Interested in legislative matters? Then check out Senate Bill 153 (Boxer, Feinstein) and House of Representatives Bill HR 355 (Schiff, Dreier, Miller), the "Rim of the Valley Act." These twin bills would study the possibility of constructing a trail that encircles the San Fernando Valley, going through the Santa Monica Mountains National Recreation Area (SMMNRA), several municipal parks (including Griffith Park), and portions of the Angeles National Forest. However, the bills also consider the possibility of expanding the SMMNRA to absorb portions of the municipal parks and the National Forest. What does this mean?

Frank Goodykoontz Memorial Hike
July 23, 2005
By Mars Bonfire

This enjoyable and uniquely meaningful adventure began at Red Box where Karen Leverich, myself, Kathy Cheever, and Winnette Butler were joined by Peter and Ignacia Doggett, Dorothy Danziger, Edith Liu, Martin Parsons, Suzy Herman, Larry Campbell, Dana Hanson, Dave Comerzan, and Bob McEwan making for a harmonious group of seasoned and sensible hikers. Our destination was elevation 7558' north of Angeles Crest in the vicinity of Kratka Ridge and almost directly west of 8214' on Mt. Williamson. Based on previous scouting we decided to park at the western trail head for Williamson, access an abandoned and moderately brushy dirt road just west of the PCT, and switchback down into the drainage separating Williamson from our objective. Water was flowing in the drainage and it was well shaded with mature incense cedars making it an appealing spot to spend a night or two as evidenced by rock fire rings, cleared areas, and extemporaneous benches. The dirt road ended here and we proceeded on an obvious use trail that crossed the stream and side-hilled to the center of the ridge coming SE off 7558' and, presumably, continues to the Williamson rocks climbing area. We left the trail in the center and headed up the mostly steep and loose ridge following signs of another, though much less developed, use trail that took us, after several breaks to accommodate for the hot and humid weather and challenging terrain, to our goal at 7558'. Here we relaxed under the shade of conifers, identified surrounding peaks, and commented on what a pleasant summit this turned out to be and how it could be hiked from the Pallett-Williamson saddle as a pathfinder and from the Rattlesnake or Burkhart trails as an explorer. And soon we were joined by Diane Dunbar, Frank Dobos, David Michels, and John Connelly along with their group and members of the Goodykoontz family for appropriate remarks and ceremonies.

That's the story on this rewarding and accessible peak I hope we will soon add to our List but what about the man after whom it is proposed to be named?

I remember when I first became enthusiastic about Hundred Peaks hiking in the mid 90's. I had neither a peak list, peak guides, nor maps ... just an inexplicable and overwhelming desire to be in the mountains and ascend peaks. Going it alone would have been madness. The only option was the security of scheduled hikes. Not knowing one peak or leader from another I would arbitrarily pick an event from the Schedule and show up. I soon realized I was going on a lot of trips led by Frank Goodykoontz! Why? Initially it was simply because he was leading so much and I liked his easy-going and accepting style. Yet as I hiked more and more with Frank I began to sense that he knew important things I would need to know if I were to become a safe and effective hiker. Now it was no longer arbitrary, as I began deliberately joining his outings, watching him, and trying to figure out why he did what he did, and began the never ending journey towards becoming a capable hiker. Then one day he said to me: "You should become a leader."

And that began another even harder journey. It's one thing to get in tune with one's own hiking abilities and limitations and to manage them effectively. It's a whole other order of complexity to get in tune with the abilities, limitations, temperaments, and expectations of a diverse group and unassumingly work with them towards synthesizing into a unified and functioning band of all for one and one for all adventures. Frank set the standard in this to which we all aspire as leaders. And with each hike I lead I realize more deeply that he was not simply a good leader or even a great leader. He was a master leader who could unobtrusively and seamlessly modulate the route, the pace, the timing and length of breaks, and other less tangible components of a hike, all the while interjecting his characteristic encouragements, to give his group the best chance for a safe and enjoyable visit to the top.

With each generation we live a little longer. And with each year we gain the advantage of ever lighter gear and ever more powerful nutritional supplements. It is possible that one day someone will lead the HPS List five or more times. And that will be a tremendous accomplishment and a valuable service to HPS and the Sierra Club. Yet Frank had a quality and style to his leading that transcends numbers. In my mind, and I'm sure, in the minds of all who enjoyed his hikes and absorbed some of his mastery there will always be only one "All Time, Preeminent Leader" ... the incomparable Frank Goodykoontz!

To my Mentor: THE COACH GREAT PEAK, GREAT MAN!!
THE STORY OF FRANK GOODYKOONTZ'S MEMORIAL HIKE
July 23, 2005
By Diane Dunbar

Months ago, at Frank Goodykoontz's memorial service, held at his retirement facility, David Michels and I walked up to Joe Young and said, "We want to lead Goodykoontz peak at his memorial hike! Frank Dobos, standing next to us, also wanted to do it. Joe told us someone else was already leading it.

As the months went by, David and others were in contact with his family via the internet. I am not on the internet as yet, so was unaware of all of this. Frank Dobos kept me aware of the planning stages and the date set for the hike. I sprained my ankle badly in March, and for a while was wondering if I could even do Mt Williamson on that date on a trail, and so made no effort to join in on the planning.

Frank Dobos never gave up the idea of taking his family up there, never doubted it could be done, and thought it SHOULD be done.

A few weeks prior to the date, My ankle started improving remarkably fast, and I told Frank, "Let's take another look at that ridge!!" I put the prescribed lace-up brace (with stiff stays on both sides of it) on under my boot, tested my ability by climbing Mt Isip on a Wednesday local hike, did fine, and went for it. Frank and I scouted that SE ridge to Goodykoontz peak. Having been unable to do anything for 4 months due to that painful injury, I was scared of reinjury, particularly on that steep down hill scree, but found that if I went for it, my ankle held up fine with that brace!!

And so, I became part of the planning. I woke up one morning feeling like Frank himself was telling me to "Take my family up that ridge. I want them to see my Peak." It was, after all, his favorite type of rough cross-country, the kind he always loved to take beginners up by frequent rests, reassuring grins, and his favorite sayings, "It's just like going uphill, isn't it?" and "I'm just barely making it." Frank Dobos, of course, had never given up on that idea to begin with. Taking them up Mt Williamson just didn't do it, that is NOT the right peak.

Joe Young had given Gail, Frank's daughter, my phone number, and she called me. Gail told me, "I am sure my family can't climb that peak, I have heard the description. It's been a long time since we have hiked, and we are all out of shape." To which I replied, "Yes, you can!! We can just rest a lot!! We'll get you up there, would your father have gotten you up there?" The note in her voice turned hopeful, and she started getting enthusiastic. The plans were set.

Frank Dobos, of course, who had never doubted any of it, just said, "Of course!!" He and I began announcing it to as many as we could remember of his "old-guard", the people who had been his devoted followers on so many of his hikes, including the 200+ peaks he led with me as coleader. We told them that we needed them as extra leaders to coax his family up that ridge, to help them if they got discouraged or need advice on negotiating mat rough terrain.

There was some discussion before that weekend because there were thunderstorms predicted, but The Coach's advice to me as he trained me in my leadership, back in the early 90's was always, "Diane, always go to the trailhead and see. In So Calif 90 percent of the time it goes." Besides, his family was camping in Chiloa and meeting us at the trailhead that day. So we forged ahead.

Then came the day of the event. When we met at La Cañada just before eight o'clock, There were more leaders than participants!!! David Michels was there to help, and so were several "Friends of the King of the Hill". Charlie Knapke and David Eisenberg, who led multiple times with him, and Devra Wasserman, a loyal fan and participant in those early hikes were there, also Joe Young, Stag, Nami and Reina Lee Brown. Some of these people did other hikes or saved a table for us at Eagles Roost for the Potluck later. Everyone had stories and memories of him on their minds and in their conversations. My speech to the participants down there, as well as to his family at the trailhead later, was this: "We are going safely up a VERY steep gorgeous rough ridge. Frank LOVED to take people up places like this. You will get scratched, you may bleed, you'll get bitten by insects, (but I will offer insect repellent) you'll scrape your knees, get too hot, be stiff the next day, and you'll end up either hating hiking and never want to do it again, or you'll be HOOKED LIKE US!!! And we'll be climbing it in the name of Frank Goodykoontz."

When we arrived at the trailhead, the Goodykoontz family was there, dressed for the brush but needing some extra water, which I had brought, along with Gatorade for them. Several of the leaders carried extra water for them, since some of their packs were not big enough to carry it. There was some tears, and some pats on the back, solace and joking. When we stood around and introduced ourselves, someone mentioned that Frank would have said, "I'm George". His family agreed and laughed. (It should be noted that his family traveled from Sacramento and Illinois, and a close friend traveled from Idaho, just for this. Also, the ones from Sacramento drove down in Frank's famous 4Runner pulling a trailer.)

We made our way down the grown-over climber's trail, where the buckthorn scratches bare legs, past the site of the old "pump house" to the lovely canyon at the base of our ridge, with Frank Dobos leading. There was a stream down there with absolutely crystal clear water. Here, at Frank Dobos' suggestion, we stashed extra water and Gatorade bottles to chill in the stream.

At this point we accessed our ridge via the climber's trail and headed on up. Bobcat Thompson's humor was essential on that climb. ("Remember, we HAVE to have FUN!!!" etc.) All of the experienced leaders along used a lot of their considerable expertise and good cheer to help and encourage that family. One of his granddaughters was a hot dog, she actually was the first one of our group to get to the peak. Tom Armbruster kept encouraging us to slow down, wise advice. The other granddaughter struggled. When she apologized for "holding us up" she was reminded that the whole event was for HER!! HER AND HER FAMILY! She was told to take her time, it was OK to rest. She ended up with hiking poles lent to her by Harvey Ganz, who also adjusted them and taught her to use them. David Michels stayed with her all the time, encouraging her, knowing when she needed a rest and coaxing her to get up and continue. Lynda Armbruster would yell down to announce a good shady rest place ahead. I have not mentioned John Connelly, a close friend and multiple co-leader of the coach's. He had helped the family with information on their campsites over the internet before this. He was in the middle, watching the slightly faster people ahead and the strugglers at the end, and coordinating so we could stay together. It was invaluable. He also gave the struggling granddaughter some "Goo," a small package of energy gel of some sort at a point about 2/3 of the way up when she really was resting a lot. It helped. I should note that this girl excelled in the hardest areas!! And slowed down when it was a mite easier (if you could call it that) Funny, isn't it, how psychology enters into this! Tom Armbruster approached her during one of the breaks and said, "Tell me, aren't you getting a little sick of people encouraging you all the time?" to which she replied, "A little!" I told her that I, at least, would seal my mouth and stop being so disgustingly cheerful. There was a lot of laughter at that point from everyone within hearing distance! I then mentioned that it was too late, we already started, but it would have been better if this granddaughter had been put in front to equalize the pace, and her mother, who also needed to rest a lot and struggled but pushed herself and had been cheerful and laughed a lot, burst into tears and said, "Remember, he always put you in front when he led us". The other daughter, Gail, who was out of shape but moved remarkably well to keep up with her hot dog daughter, told us they always had an argument when her father led them on hikes. They wanted the trail, he wanted the cross-country. He always won.

Bob Beach, a fan of the coach, also was along and encouraged and lent advice. We approached the top of the peak, with all 4 family members commenting on how beautiful it was on the ridge mere, and when we got there we found that Karen Leverich, Mars Bonfire, and Kathy Cheever were waiting there with their large group for us! (Including Dana Hanson, flown in from Idaho for this, a close friend of their family who had hiked with Frank for years, I had heard SO much about her from him.) Their group had left a little before us and moved considerably faster.

At that point, with the mingled group of about 30 people, I stood on a rise and said, "Would the Goodykoontz family please raise their hands!" When they did a loud cheer rose up. Gail stood up and with emotional tones said, "Yes, we are his family, but you are his family too!! Thank you so much for doing this!" There followed a short very meaningful ceremony that should establish this peak as Goodykoontz Peak forever in our archives.

The down climb went very well with the family being encouraged on the steep descent, and one of them, thank God in jeans, taking some of it sitting down. (And many stops for pictures in that beautiful place, and to watch the climbers on Pyramid Rock beside us.) The potluck party at Eagles Roost was wonderful, with extra people there, and lots of good food, and many good stories of the coach. The thunderstorm was considerable enough to wait until people were getting ready to leave to start, and lent a grand finale to the whole day.

AND SO IT WAS THAT THE FAMILY OF FRANK GOODYKOONTZ CARRIED HIM IN SPIRIT UP THE ONLY PEAK ON THE LIST (hopefully) THAT HE HAD NEVER CLIMBED BEFORE!! (You're welcome, Frank, it was an honor to take them...) And, Terry (Frank's son who could not attend, but will get a copy of this) Remember, you are a hero BIGTIME. We missed you today. PARTICIPANTS: FAMILY: Gail Biddick, Jennifer Harris, Connie Gonzalez, Mariah Gonzalez, Dana Hanson (close, close family friend) HPSers: Diane Dunbar, Frank Dobos, Lynda Armbruster, Tom Armbruster, Bobcat Thompson, David Michels, Suzanne Michels, Bob Beach, Mary Hendricks, Harvey Ganz, and John Connelly.

LILLY AND SONIA'S CLIMB TO MT. FUJI
July 21, 2005
By Lilly Y. Fukui

On Thursday, July 21, 2006, Lilly Fukui and Sonia Arancibia successfully made it to the summit of Mt. Fuji (approx. 12,388') via the shorter but steep route, Fujinomiya. As the saying goes, "You are a fool if you have never climbed Mt. Fuji; also, that you are twice the fool if you climb it more than once." The following is a short summary.

At 2:30 a.m. my cousin Hiroshi woke us up and we got dressed to prepare for our hike to Mt. Fuji. It took two hours to drive to the trail head from Tokyo. Once we got there we purchased "hot coffee" in a can from a machine. Needless to say, it tasted great! We started our hike around 5:30 a.m.

Hiroshi hiked with us up to the 8th Station, where he shared with us his onigiri (rice balls) before heading back down. Each station has souvenirs, food, and flushing bathrooms. The scenery was beautiful, the lava mountain filled with beautiful yellow flowers all the way. There are signs in English encouraging us: "HANG IN THERE, 90 minutes to the peak, and Great, you’ve come a long way!" I was really exhausted by this last sign...but the strong and energetic Sonia was already at the peak, signaling me to hurry up! I had a rush near the top and started speeding up. I was so happy to reach

Lilly Fukui and Sonia Arancibia on Mt Fuji

Sonia and to be at the top! Yes, there is a post office at the top where you can mail the "official Mt. Fuji postcard" to yourself, your family, and/or friends!

There weren't too many hikers (being a week
On my return home that day, I stopped at the Ranger Station and bought three additional maps. Two were very useful Forest Service maps. The third was a 1971 map produced by a defunct and mostly deceased group of environmentalists called "Defenders of San Gorgonio Wilderness." I bought this last one for historical reasons. Although the map was not detailed or particularly useful for navigating, it marked a cross-country route from 10K ridge to Lake Peak.

I was confident that with this collection of maps, along with the USGS topo map I already had, I would do OK. I had promised my Assistant Leader and provisional check-off person, George Wysup, that I would plan a route with as much cross-country terrain as possible. But it would have been nice to try out my plan for difficulty, steepness, rockfall danger, etc.

So this is how the outing went: eleven people came along, including George and myself, with one last minute cancellation and six people on the waiting list due to the permit limit of twelve.

I enjoyed preparing and presenting my trailhead talk. I remembered how many times I had been on Sierra Club trips, following behind a leader, not knowing where I was, where I was going nor how I got there. So I searched the unplumbed depths of my creativity and came with a hand-drawn map of the planned route, peaks and features in the surrounding area to offer the participants an orientation and feel for the area.

Using this work of art, I presented the route and a brief history of each of the peaks. I spoke of the fact that the 10K Ridge register location used to be at the southeast end of the ridge at bump 9930' and is now found on the 10,094' summit at the northwest end and that there is still an old canister with names of famous peak baggers (going back to 1968) at the old location.

I explained that Lake Peak is so named because of its view of Dry Lake (which today would be a Wet Lake due to snowmelt). I moved onto Grinnell Mtn, a peak named after a UC Berkeley scientist and environmentalist who, during the first half of the last century, embarked on a study of birds and animals in this area. I explained my belief in the importance of remembering the people for whom peaks have been named. For if we ignore the significance of these names we are also forgetting the leaders and environmentalists whose legacy we enjoy today.

I informed the group that the Grinnell high point is a "pimple" of rocks on a relatively flat area. Not confident that I would easily find that obscure high point, I was tempted to announce a contest with a reward for whoever found the register location first. But I was afraid George W. might protest so I resigned myself to the potential embarrassment of wandering around for too long searching for the register can.

We began the hike by walking up Fish Creek Trail and thankfully there were noticeably fewer biting critters than two weeks earlier. After 1.5 miles and at the second sharp switchback in the trail, we began our cross-country ascent. I had planned to go up a short gully that ends on a ridge that ascends steeply and directly to the high point of 10K ridge. But since I had not scouted, my creative juices soared and I looked up above me and saw another route that was longer and steeper but met the planned ridge route at a slightly higher point. I said to myself, "why not?" So we walked up this broad gully until it flattened out to a steep hillside.
We scrambled up this slope in the already too hot temperature. I had warned participants to be vigilant for potential rockfall and to loudly and assertively warn others in case of this eventuality. We did have some small "tumbler" and participants obeyed rockfall protocol. These few small rocks slid down the natural fall line and hikers were always out of harm's way.

We took a ten minute rest upon reaching the chosen ridge for the ascent, then continued up that ridge at a moderate pace, stopping frequently in shady spots and gained the 2,000 feet to the peak in two hours.
Though the peak offers no shade we were happy to be on top, with its majestic views, and took 45 minutes for lunch.

After a well-deserved rest, I led the group westward along the ridgeline leading to Lake Peak. I was warned, in my pre-hike research, to stay to the right of a "toothpick forest" of dead trees to minimize the work of climbing over the fallen tree trunks. However, the trees seemed to have fallen in a north/south orientation, so it was actually easier to just stay on top of the ridge. We encountered one small patch of soft snow right after the first saddle and it was easily traversed. On top of Lake Peak, I found my way to the register by remembering that the high point was on the northwest corner of the plateau. And I remembered I would have a view of Dry Lake. The Ranger was correct. The lake was filled with water, deep blue, a beautiful sight.

On Lake Peak we could see the snowy mass of San Gorgonio. Someone pointed out two ant-sized people making their way down the steep snowy bowl.
Some expressed concern regarding their welfare but Ginny could see in her binoculars that they were equipped with ice axes so we assumed all was well.

After signing in and admiring the wet Dry Lake for a few extra minutes we continued on a more standard cross-country route down to Fish Creek Saddle. We looked for the "famous" ranger tent so I could obediently show my permit but there was no ranger or tent in sight.
Tom and Ginny, who "didn't need" Grinnell, signed out after agreeing to follow the trail down to a designated stream crossing and wait for us at that location.

We then proceeded cross-country up the southern ridge of Grinnell, using a not-so-obscure use trail, to the flat top of Grinnell. Just as I was warned, the use trail disappears and I was left on my own to locate the high point. How hard can that be? I saw on the map that it was on the NE corner of the mountain, and reports had indicated it was near a ring of fallen trees. I walked and walked and was smiling when I located that ring of trees, just where it was supposed to be. I looked around that ring and everyone was quietly watching. Uh Oh.
Where is that damned can? Then out of the corner of my eye, I saw George walking to my right and then heard him say something like "What's this?" Oh thank you George!! Now I remember. The report had indicated "just beyond" a ring of fallen trees. And there it was, the high point, just a few feet away. We signed the register, noticed another leisurely rest and then proceeded down a ridge from Grinnell's summit, following a somewhat east-southeast course. I was happy to meet the main trail just minutes from the switchback towards which I had been aiming.

We marched down the trail and met Tom and Ginny who had enjoyed a relaxing streamside hour of nature gazing. They reported that the two Gorgonio snow climbers ("Tom and Pete") had come by earlier and had shared their stories.

We completed the outing at 5:30 pm. I rewarded the group with cold watermelon for being competent and cooperative and I bribed my provisional check-off evaluator George Wysup with a giant, cold Heineken beer.

I thanked everyone for a good, fun day. I thought about how these peaks were now 7X for Tom Hill, 9X for George Wysup on 10K Ridge, 10X on Grinnell and 11X on Lake. For Laura Joseph it was more than once on all three. As for me, 1X is a nice enough feeling. I quietly said to myself what I say after every HPS outing, no matter how enjoyable, "I'm glad I'm finished with that one! I can't wait to start bagging islands in the Caribbean!!"

I then recalled the statement by Christopher Reynolds in an article published in the LA Times Outdoors Section about the Hundred Peaks Section. He began by writing, "Look at these people. They all seem normal enough."

Are we? I wonder.

Addendum

I am so grateful to George Wysup for agreeing to assist me on this climb despite, the day before, leading the most strenuous hike of the Waterman Rendezvous. Thank you George for never saying "NO" if you are able to help fellow hiker. And thank you for giving me the Sunday of your birthday weekend. We had a small but fun birthday celebration after the hike at a local Redlands eatery in honor of George's birthday on Monday, July 18th.

I offer thanks to another very special Sierra Club leader who skillfully tutored me in navigation over the past year. He began his teaching on Suicide Rock earily a year ago to the day, on July 17, 2004. He and George are the best examples of leaders who give so much of themselves to the Club, taking people to peaks on scheduled hikes again and again. They also devote endless hours leading private trips, quietly helping people complete their lists. This second leader also dedicated himself to the not so small task of teaching me how to "stay found". If Mars Bonfire was "born to be in the Wild", then this leader, teacher and mentor was "born to be in the Hills". Thank you Tom!
Tom Amneus Memorial Hike
June 25, 2005
By Doris Duval

Seventeen hikers attended a Memorial Hike to Mt. Waterman in memory of Tom Amneus, who had passed away in August 2004 at age 97.

Many remembered fondly hiking the local mountains or backpacking the High Sierras with

Tom Amneus has been honored by the Angeles Chapter for his lifetime work with the Sierra Club, not the least of which was his contribution to opening up the Sierra Club to people of all races. Tom was also a leader, instructor, and pioneer.

Tom. Mt. Waterman was Tom's favorite peak in the San Gabriels, and when we reached the summit we broke out the goodies and shared stories about adventures in the wilderness with our old hiking buddy and frequent trip leader. It was a heart-warming and pleasant day spent on a beautiful mountain. I am sure Tom was pleased.

Thanks to all who participated, with special thanks to Southern Courtney for co-leading the event.

Management Committee Meeting Minutes

Date: Monday, March 14, 2005 Winnette Butler's house.
Meeting call to Order - 6:37 pm

Attending: In attendance were MComm members Wolf Leverich, Winnette Butler, Greg de Hoogh, Lynda Armbruster, Joe Young and Charlotte Feitshans.

Minutes: Charlotte Feitshans: The minutes of December and January were accepted as corrected.

Committee Reports

Treasurer: Sandy Burnside: The Treasurer's report was m/s/p (attached)

Membership: Greg de Hoogh: Report was m/s/p (attached)
It was suggested to send a reminder to those members who are remiss in renewing their membership. It was m/s/p to allot $100.00 to Greg to purchase postcards to use as reminders. Wolf will work with Greg to correct leaders' ratings.

Programs: Joe Young: Next year we will plan a Spring Fling. There was a suggestion for a speaker at the next banquet, Jan. 21, 2006: perhaps Lee Stetson, who has a one-man show impersonating John Muir.

Outreach/Conservation: Lynda Armbruster: Lynda presented a program about HPS in Orange County and Long Beach. Joe Young made a brief 5 minute presentation. The Chapter Banquet is in May. There are HPS members being honored (list attached). Conservation Newsletter attached.

Mountain Records: Wolf Leverich: Based on discussions with the Los Padres National Forest and the Los Padres Forest Association, we may be allowed to drive into McKinley Saddle and Alamia as part of joint maintenance projects on existing trails. Based on discussions with BLM, there is some possibility we can establish new trails with land manager blessing in non-Wilderness areas.

Peak Guides: Karen Leverich: Changes attached.

Chair would like us to urge people to take the Leadership Training Course; first one is scheduled for April 2, at the Costa Mesa Community Center. Wilderness First Aid training will be in June, only time this year.

New Business
Edith Liu will be The Lookout mailer. There are only 2 post offices in LA who do this bulk rate mailing Adjournment: 8:38 PM.

June Membership Report
Members: 395 (339 primary + 56 household)
Subscribers: 74
Total: 469
Membership Report: M/s/p Copy of report attached to Minutes.

A discussion was held regarding methods and costs for notifying members of renewal due-dates. Greg proposed changes and designed a new Lookout Subscription/Membership form to clarify subscription options. It was m/s/p that Greg will revise and begin utilizing the proposed form with suggested changes.

A discussion was held regarding the possibility of using credit cards for subscriptions and donations and also for a new structure to make a portion of contributions tax deductible.

Merchandise, Conservation, and Outreach: Lynda Armbruster gave a brief conservation report about Carrizo Plain and the Forest Planning Project which needs support and comments by June 21st. She also encouraged leaders to co-list HPS hikes with other sections such as WTC, 20’s and 30’s, and Wilderness Adventures when appropriate. A discussion was held regarding development of a new HPS specific brochure. Wolf Leverich reported that he has been working with the 20’s and 30’s Section to co-list hikes to HPS Peaks.

Programs and The Lookout Editor Report: Joe Young reported on several ideas he’s exploring for a 2006 Annual Awards Banquet Speaker. He will provide more information later. Joe Stetson is not within an appropriate price range. Joe also provided the following deadlines for printing in The Lookout:
