Chapter Outings Management Committee Adopts Policy Regarding Use Trails and Summit Blocks

1) In the outdoors, the Sierra Club expects its members to adhere to the "Leave No Trace" principles whether on a sanctioned Sierra Club outing or private outing. It is the policy of the Angeles Chapter that members not leave objects foreign to an area in the area being traveled without approval of the land manager. Members should avoid altering the landscape in any way unless so directed - or allowed - by land managers controlling the property.

2) If any Chapter entity or its leaders impose a requirement to climb to the actual high point of a summit or summit block in order to count the summit toward a peakbagging goal, then all that entity's outings to that summit must be rated to match the difficulty of that high point and leaders of such outings must be appropriately rated.

The policy was approved unanimously by the Outings Management Committee.

From the Chair
By Dave Comerzan

Just returned from the Spring Fling. I had the opportunity to participate in three great days of hiking. The weather was perfect. Sunny, in the 70’s, slight breeze. Couldn’t get better. Especially when two days later, Edith Liu sent me a picture of her hiking on Ryan Mtn. in snow flurries. What a difference a few days makes. The official campsite, Mission Creek Preserve, was outstanding. Four miles off the main highway, a lovely stone house for meetings, flush toilets, running water, everything a hiker could ask for. Unfortunately, the turnout for the potluck was poor. This may have been in part due to misinformation we had – there was room for plenty of cars – and the distance from the hikes. Whatever, the people who were there enjoyed the dinner.

One of the things that the Management Committee is finding out is that meeting every other month requires some real advance planning. Which is probably a good thing. This allows leaders to be thinking about possible hikes and for participants to put the dates on their calendars. Some of the up coming events are as follows:

July 26th, 2007: Waterman Rendezvous. Once again we are going with favorite. Hopefully the weather will cooperate.

Sept. 29th and 30th 2007: Fall Festival. We have reserved a group campsite at the Hurkey Creek Campground.
Hot showers, flush toilets, all the necessary creature comforts. Contact Jim Fleming for reservations.

Jan. 19th, 2008: Annual banquet. Seems like we just had one. We are again going with Taix, although we are exploring other possible locations for 2009.

May 17th and 18th, 2008: Spring Fling. Now I know we just had one of those. This time we are looking into the Keller Sierra Hut in the Big Bear area.

July 19th, 2008: Waterman Rendezvous. Although we are considering changing the location and calling it the Summer Rendezvous. We are considering the Baldy area.

Sept 27th and 28th, 2008: Fall Festival. I told you we were thinking far in advance.

Those are the dates. So mark you calendars. Leaders, think about hikes. Lots of great areas to hike in.

Speaking of marking your calendars, don’t forget about our meetings. It is your chance to give input to the Management Committee on what direction the Hundred Peaks Section should be going. The following are dates and locations of our upcoming meetings:

July 10th, 2007: Newcombs Ranch. Great chance to hike first, then attend the meeting.

Sept. 11th, 2007: Annual meeting at Eaton Canyon.

Meetings are open to all members.

Last, but not least, Doris Duval has graciously agreed to head up the nominating committee again. Shortly, Doris or someone on the committee may approach you about running for a position on the Management Committee. There are three positions that are up for election. Although everyone on the committee is doing a great job, we need some fresh input. Give some serious thought about running. If this section is going to continue to grow, we need your help. Don’t sit back and think that someone else will take care of it. Someday, there may not be someone else.

New Outing, first time published
I: Iron Mountain #1 (8007'): Work off that Thanksgiving feast and join us on this local hike. It's a strenuous hike - they don't call it Big Iron for nothing. 7200' total gain (6600' out and 600' on return), estimate 12 hours of hiking. Will start early in morning and probably come out in the dark. Contact leaders for details. Leader: DAVE COMERZAN Co-Leaders: MARS BONFIRE, KATHY CHEEVER

Chapter Outings Assembly
Saturday, October 27, 2007
By Kent Schwitkis, Chair, Outings Management Committee

Join the Chapter Outings Management Committee on Saturday for a session on the present and future of the chapter’s outings program. All Sierra Club members are invited, especially outings leaders, provisional leaders and outings chairs. We’ll meet at 9:30 am and finish around 4:00 pm. Location is the Eaton Canyon Nature Center, 1750 N. Altadena Dr, Pasadena.

Directions: From 210 freeway eastbound, exit Altadena Dr, north 1.5 miles to park entrance on right. From 210 westbound, exit Sierra Madre Blvd, west 1 block to Altadena Dr, north 1.5 miles to park entrance on right.

Light breakfast and refreshments provided. Bring your lunch.

To remind you, the purpose of the Assembly is two-fold.

A) It is one of the venues where we disseminate important information to our Outings Leaders. It is also another mechanism to information to flow from you and your program back to the OMC and ExComm.

B) It is also where we elect a new set of OMC members as well as a member for the Safety Committee (SC) and a member for the Leadership Training Committee (LTC). Therefore, it is imperative that all entities have a representative at the Assembly to insure that you have a voice for your program. Only those outings chairs (or entity chair if the outings chair is absent) may vote.

Thanks for all that you do in the club.

H&W www.angeleschapter.org/nss/ for reservation form. Participants must be 13 years or older (under 18 must be accompanied by adult). Leader: Liana Argento (310-370-2950; lianaargento@hotmail.com). Asst Leaders: Cliff & Gabi McLean.

Outings Safety
By Tina Bowman
Chair, Mountaineering Oversight Committee

In order to "explore, enjoy, and protect," we lead groups to wild places on outings we want to be safe, enjoyable, and environmentally responsible. Recently a task force looked at safety on mountaineering outings and developed a document, "Safety Management on Restricted Mountaineering Outings," which you may see at the Mountaineering Oversight Committee's page of the Clubhouse extranet site at http://clubhouse.sierraclub.org/outings/Mountaineering/SafetyManagement.PDF. I strongly suggest that leaders of all outings review the full document. While the focus was on mountaineering outings, some parts of the document apply to almost any outing. The main point to emphasize here is remaining aware of changing environmental conditions and the physical and mental condition of the group.

Mental Aspect of Safety Management

- Fatigue—physical fatigue can dull mental awareness of risk and diminish concentration on the task at hand, such as descending a relatively easy slope and taking a misstep or misjudging the size of a rock in the trail and tripping
- Distractions—similar to fatigue in removing concentration from one's movement over the terrain, such as looking back to respond in a conversation and then tripping over a root

- Over-confidence—over estimating the ability and experience of the individual or group, for example, assuming a group will move as quickly at the end of a long day as at the beginning or assuming that a roped team on a snow slope can arrest the slip of one member

- Complacency—for example, what the group climbed up with confidence may present challenges on the way down because of fatigue or awkward moves. What has been done before may present challenges in the current circumstance. Talus slopes can change in their stability as the slope changes.

Awareness of these factors—the leaders’ knowing and applying safety protocol and good judgment—is key to accident prevention. For example, leaders should remind participants on the descent that the climb is only half over and that they must stay focused on the climb. Monitoring the physical, emotional, and mental condition of the group is an essential aspect of good leadership and safety management.

Examples of Keeping Safety Paramount

These examples apply to leaders and participants.

- Being in good condition to climb safely (cardio-vascular conditioning as well as muscle strength and endurance)
- Staying stable and completely in balance on and off the trail
- Monitoring changing environmental conditions
- Making sure all members of the group have appropriate and necessary clothing and gear
- Keeping ice axe self-arrest skills well practiced
- Staying firmly attached to the ice axe
- Keeping away form exposure by anchoring oneself or staying well back from a cliff while waiting on a climb
- Not touching rocks above unless one is sure that the rocks are completely stable
- Staying well hydrated and eating enough to keep up with the energy demands of the outing
- Carrying a first aid kit appropriate for the outing and your level of first aid training. For suggestions see http://clubhouse.sierraclub.org/outings/medical/first_aid/kits.asp
- Reviewing your first aid training prior to leading an outing
- Having a safety management plan for alerting rescue services if needed
- Periodically reviewing the lightning and altitude illness protocols available on Clubhouse: http://clubhouse.sierraclub.org/outings/medical/library/lightning.asp

These are just a few ideas of ways we consciously can make outings as safe as possible.

Thanks for the Memories, HPS!

Tina Bowman

Compared to those folks who have done the HPS list ninety-five times, my getting through it twice is pretty pathetic. In defense of my apparent slacking, I was a bit distracted by those other lists, you know, the DPS and SPS, and Lower Peaks (once only, please).

For about a nanosecond I had completed the List faster than anyone else. It wasn’t intentional; I just got rolling on the thing there for a while. That was way back in the last century in my first journey through the List when I used to jog peaks or much of them when there was a dirt road or decent trail—it was a way to get the Big Three in a day or the Big Four (in two trips). The second time I still avoided backpacking the peaks, but I resorted to my mountain bike for those particular dirt roads.

Should I blame all of this on my dad? After all, he’s the one who made my cousin and me turn around on our attempt of San Gorgonio when I was seven or eight. I was mad and wanted to go on. What’s a little darkness? So what if my mother, aunts, and probably two other cousins were waiting for us at Dollar Lake and would be worried? Or should I blame Phil Snyder, who took me on my first HPS peak bagging day in the San Gabriels on November 21, 1981? By then, I had hiked Old Grayback three times but no other HPS peaks. Lawlor was a very good introduction to HPSing, going up—and, worse, down—that firebreak. We bagged six peaks that day, including the mighty Vetter and Mooney. So I thought, ok, maybe. Several months before then, my SPS friend Jeff Koepke asked whether I’d done many HPS peaks. He pointed out that I was, essentially, backwards. Most folks start with HPS, he explained, then mix in some DPS and eventually SPS. I made up for my faux pas by finishing the HPS List the first time on Cornell, September 18, 1983. I got my little Datsun 210 station wagon stuck in sand or a stream only a couple of times as I went through the List the first time.

Then someone did it the List faster. Damn! So off I went again on July 2, 1984, trying to get as many peaks in a day every time I went out. No more loafing! That lasted through November (fifty-three peak in seven days of hiking). After a particularly brushy day I took a break of two years, did a few for a year, then one a year for two years, then took off until 1995 (two peaks). I sputtered along after that, eventually picking up speed.
again, which is easy enough when the peak bagging pace is a crawl. In 2005 I managed to claim sixty, which saw me enter 2006 at #207.

I was hoping, desperately hoping, to finish all three lists for the second time in October. Besides the HPS peaks, I needed five DPS (two in Baja and the Guardian Angels in Zion) and thirteen SPS peaks. Tom, my husband, had been skeptical when I'd told him the previous fall that I wanted to finish in a year. At that time I was up to 159 HPS, so I needed 135 peaks on the three lists. By summer of 2006, going out to hike HPS peaks felt like a job. I abandoned Tom, swamped with work, rarely able to come with me. He saw me now and then when I stopped to replace ripped up shorts and check e-mail.

One highlight of the second go round was coming back from Sam Fink and seeing a fellow wearing only his boots and day pack. He leapt behind a tree, and in a few seconds he was striding toward me again, this time with shorts. Rats! I was fortunate in my timing of peaks and fires—either long enough after a fire or before the fires that took out so many peaks in the Los Padres this summer. But what was up with all those little gnats on virtually every HPS peak I was on last summer? I don't remember those from before. Of course, my memory is now questionable, as is my sense. On March 13, 1983, I went over Villager to get to Rabbit and came back via Rosa Point. Twenty-one years later, clearly delusional, I tried the same thing but was hours slower, not because I was admiring the wildflowers or hanging out a long time with the group let by Karen and Wolf Leverich, whom I met on Villager. After doing that, someone asked whether I wanted to join him and do it again. No way!

Each time I did the List, I went on only one HPS official outing, both times to Yucaipa Ridge. The first time I took advantage of Dick Akawie's getting permission to cross the private property (we started on the Oak Glen side and came out at Mill Creek with a car shuttle). On the first go round I also accidentally met up with an HPS group for Silver and ran into another group somewhere else. The second time I was going to do the Yucaipa Ridge peaks with Tom, but then he couldn't go, and I was a bit nervous about hiking alone since a mountain lion or two had been spotted up along the ridge. I'd love to see one there as long as I have absolutely no resemblance to lunch. So I went with Kent Schwikits' group and had a fine day bagging the last peaks I needed before the Big Day—October 7, 2006—when I finished the DPS List on Waucoba at midnight, the HPS on Five Fingers at dawn, and the SPS on Independence around noon.

Will I do the lists again? Will obsession strike again? Yes or no, thanks for the memories, HPS!

Howland Haskell Bailey
April 5, 1912—December 26, 2006.
By Mary McMannes

Once again, the climbers and the hikers are saying goodbye to another one of our favorites—Howland "How" Bailey who passed away the day after Christmas at the age of 94 years young.

I first met How in 1962 on the DPS listed peak, Spectre. After a long, hot, and arduous day, How and I were instant friends and continued to be so over the years. His big warm smile and quiet demeanor impressed all of us.

His daughters sent me his funeral program—and there were so many things about How that many of us never knew. He never bragged about his own accomplishments (and there were many) but instead asked us about ours. How was a premature baby and frail—but he didn't let that stop him from a life of incredible adventures. He lived life to the fullest right to the end. In his twenties, he scaled school buildings and in his nineties, he was delighted when he bid and made his first seven no-trump bridge hand.

How's educational background is impressive with degrees from Haverford, Duke, Caltech; winning scholarships until he earned his Ph.D. in physics. He was barely twenty when he landed a teaching position in Tarsus, Turkey; and during vacations he'd ride his bike all over the place covering ground whether it was the road to Glasgow or Baghdad! Anne was his wife of fifty-eight years, and she said, "How never met an adventure he didn't like, and a hair-raising bad road or swaying vine bridge only improved the experience." He taught at M.I.T. during World War II, and after the war moved to California where he worked for RAND Corporation in Santa Monica. Rand continued to employ him well into his eighties.

Of course, coming to California provided the arena for How becoming a mountain man. He joined the wonderful Sierra Club and begging peaks became a mission. He earned his DPS emblem in 1966, his SPS Emblem in 1967, and completed the HPS List in 1968. How was a favorite leader for all the sections, and he made a game of connecting his peak climbing routes in the San Gabriels with canyon and ridge hikes he often did by himself. The Hundred Peaks Section honored him with the John Backus Leadership Award (1968), while the Angeles Chapter presented How with an Outings Service Award (1978), and the coveted Chester Versteeg Outings Award (1983).

This great mountaineer with the heart of an explorer managed to visit over one hundred countries with his beloved Anne by his side. Later, he led his daughters, Bernadine and Barbara, and his four grandchildren on many backpacking and peak adventures starting at the crack of dawn and being picked up days later somewhere in the Sierras. How loved his friends, and his great smile will not be forgotten. Even in his nineties, this exceptional scholar, climber, and hiker met each day with joyous appreciation. There was always an adventure to be had whether re-living memories of scaling difficult peaks or winning a hand at bridge. How blessed our lives and will be greatly missed.

In Memoriam: Priscilla H. Libby (1918-2007)
By Chris Libby

It is with great sadness that I announce the passing of my mother, Priscilla Libby, in Santa Cruz, California.

She was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Maine. She raised six children in Los Angeles, while working as an administrator for the Venice and Marina Chambers of Commerce and the American Cancer Society; and as an editor for Security Pacific and Bank of America. Mom was a single, working mother in West L.A. who, with a life-long love of the outdoors, had vowed to join the Sierra Club when the kids were older. About 1971, she fulfilled this wish and 1, being the youngest, was fortunate to be part of that. My mother and I took BMTCC together in 1972 and LTC the next year, and were co-leaders of trips for the HPS. She also led trips with many other people and sections, including a number of bus trip/backpacks for the West L.A. Group. She was an SPS member, a DPS emblem holder, and an HPS List finisher, and had also hiked the John Muir Trail.

She ascended Mount Whitney, twice; Mount Shasta, Mount Lassen; and hiked the entire John Muir trail. She was a proud member of the Great Old Broads for Wilderness and the Hash House Harriers running club, Los Angeles. Beginning distance running after age 60, she completed over 50 marathons, including Pikes Peak, Los Angeles, Honolulu and Wild Wild West. She ran her favorite, the Catalina Marathon, 13 times, culminating in a first place finish in the over 80 age group.

She was also the consummate world traveller in later years, visiting such places as 18,700 foot Kala Patar above Everest Base Camp (at age 67), the Tien Shan Mountains of the U.S.S.R., Antarctica, Baffin Island, and Greenland. She rode the Trans-Siberia Railroad across the U.S.S.R. alone and took a boat to Japan. On a trip to Africa, only illness prevented her from summiting Kilimanjaro.

My five siblings and I, as well as her numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren, her brother, and many more will always profoundly miss her. Our family requests that memorial donations be sent to The Ventana Wilderness Alliance, Trail Fund, P.O. Box 506, Santa Cruz, CA 95061. www.ventanawild.org

Anyone wishing to contact the family to share stories of trips, say hello, or whatever, may do so via my e-mail.

BEAUTY TAMES the BEAST
April 7, 2007
Peter & Ignacia Doggett

On 4-07-07 Peter & Ignacia Doggett and Mars Bonfire & Kathy Cheever led an HPS Hike to Iron Spring Mtn & Beauty Peak with participants Larry Campbell, Sonia Arancibia, Keith Christiansen, Greg Daly & Paul Garry. We drove high-clearance vehicles from the Chihuahua Valley Road to the East of Iron Spring.

Peter began our adventure at 9:30am by leading the group on a Jeep Trail that headed West and then North for about 3 miles. One and one half hours later, a pair of ducks signaled the start of the entrance to the Beast. A Path winds through dense brush for 1.5 miles to the top of Iron Spring Mtn. Mars led the way to the summit and we reached the top by noon. After 20 minutes of lunch, conversation & vistas, Ignacia led the group back to the Jeep Trail, which we reached around 1pm. Once we returned to the Jeep Trail, it was only another 4 minute’s walk to the Earthen Dam. About 1/4 mile beyond this Dam is the normal path that winds through dense brush to the top of Beauty Peak, that we reached by 2pm.

After another 20 minute break, we descended down the SOUTH side of Beauty and after dropping 750’ we arrived at another Jeep Trail. From here we headed East, arriving at the Pawnee Mine ruins @ 3:20pm. The mine has an unobstructed entrance and there are several abandoned, dilapidated buildings. About 1/4 mile beyond the Mine, we left the Jeep Trail and entered another World. A beautiful, gorgeous canyon unfolded before us. The terrain was unlike any other HPS route. Red rocks were bountiful and a stream had carved a deep & narrow slot. The stream was mostly dry. Hiking through Cooper Canyon during a wet year or after a heavy rain would be dangerous. But this canyon is breathtaking. Words are not enough. It must be seen. After a mile of walking through the wonders of this canyon, we returned directly to our vehicles @ 4:45pm.

The entire hike was about 12.5 miles with 3300’ of Gain. General consensus was that this approach is much more enjoyable than the normal route.

Iron Mountain #1
March 21, 2007
By Greg Daly

Being relatively new to HPS (and to hiking generally), I had heard more experienced HPS members tell tales of sweat, tears and perhaps some blood, about hiking Iron Mountain #1 in the San Gabriel River Basin. For me, these stories made hiking BIG Iron strangely enticing. Being so very far away from "Finishing the List," I certainly need a way to feel that I even somewhat belong on the trail with hikers that need two hands to count their List finishes. Putting BIG Iron in my personal bag of peaks would, I figured, bring a certain sense of belonging. Or it could be that I have become infected with the HPS peak-bagging virus. Or it could simply be that I have completely lost my marbles...

Before dawn on March 21, 2007, four eager adventurers: George Wyssup, Patrick Vaughn, Jennifer Washington and yours-truly, met at the Azusa rideshare point ready for a great day of hiking in the San Gabriel Mountains on a beautiful Spring day. March 21 is the first day of Spring, after all. Too bad Mother Nature didn’t get the memo about the beautiful weather. The day broke with solid overcast and a forecasted 30% chance of showers until 11 a.m. Our hiker’s optimism convinced us that the 70% chance of not-showers would certainly prevail, and off we went to the trailhead.

Our plan was to hike the typical route from Heaton Flat to Allison Saddle, then on to the summit. We got on the trail at 7:35 a.m., only 5 minutes behind our planned start—prompt considering that weekday traffic prevented an on-time meeting at the rideshare. After one false-start return to the car after having forgotten to lock it, the Fearless Four headed up the hill.

Somewhere around the lower saddle at elevation 3550’, it became obvious that we would have to wait for later in the day to see the beautiful vistas that Iron Mountain provides. Our visibility was probably only a few hundred feet; good enough to hike but terrible for sightseeing. Oh, and that 30% chance of showers came true for us starting here too. Not that it really mattered. Earlier rain, combined with the overcast, made all of the brush very wet. As we moved through the Manzanita and other chaparral, we quickly realized it really didn’t matter what direction the water came from. It was going to be a wet day, whether it was raining or not. Never really considered the possibility of snow ...

Onward the Fab Four trekked. As time passed, we were increasingly confident that the weather would change and that promised 70% chance of not-showers until 11 a.m. would prevail. At one point it even seemed that the Sun might, just might, fight its way through. So much for that. At Allison Saddle, while stopped for a snack and chat break, we noticed that the rain was starting to bounce off of us. I think it was Patrick Vaughn that identified bouncing rain as something called sleet. Well, I guess sleet qualifies as not-showers.

The climb gets steadily steep and demanding from Allison Saddle up the ridge. But the wet weather and cool temperature kept our water consumption low, and George W. (this was his 10th BIG Arm – yes, 10th!) set a steady, deliberate pace that worked well for all, including our jet-lagged Jennifer who had arrived only 10 hours before at LAX from Washington, DC. We passed through the vegetation zone from lower-level scrub into tall pines that were encrusted with ice from the 70% not-showers. And it was here that we were treated to another of Mother Nature’s surprises: falling ice from those tall pines. Every time the wind blew (thankfully it was a relatively wind-free day), some of that ice would fall and we all got a few clonks on the head. Undaunted, the Fearless Four continued to the summit (8007'), where a quick lunch and increasingly strong snowfall made the stay quite, ah, memorable.

The descent was tiring on quadriceps, as one might expect of a 7000'+ gain hike. But the precipitation had a stabilizing effect on some of the steep, normally loose sections of trail and all made a fairly quick pace heading down. The weather seemed to start letting up a bit by the time we got back to Allison Saddle, and it was here that the Foolish Four decided that Bonita Peak (3983', on the Lower Peaks List) was something that we just couldn't pass up. Fortunately for yours-truly (who was tired enough that even a verse or two of "The Green Fields of France" was a strain), Bonita is only about an additional ¼ mile round-trip from the trail and adds only a little gain.

Both peaks in the bag, the Fatigued Four arrived safely and, admittedly, somewhat slowly back at the car at 5:25 p.m. for the ride back to Azusa. Stats for the hike:
- 2 peaks (Iron Mtn. #1 and Bonita Peak)
- total distance of just over 13 miles
- total gain of about 7300 feet (with Bonita included)
- time on trail 9 hours, 50 minutes (including the false start)
- time moving on trail about 9 hours 5 minutes
Finally, the clouds broke and the Sun made its first appearance of the day at 6 p.m. as we drove out of the mountains back to Azusa!

Send this form and a check payable to the Sierra Club to Sierra Club, P. O. Box 52968, Boulder, CO 80322. Dues are NOT tax deductible.
Edith Liu took this photo on the summit of Condor Peak on February 9, 2007. The occasion was the evaluation of Wayne Bannister for his "O" leadership. With Wayne are Dorothy Danziger, Jan Rayman, and Bruce Cristol. Not shown are Edith and Wayne's assistant, Mei.

Bob Cates and John Robinson hold the plaque which was maintained in Muir Lodge in Santa Anita Canyon. Muir Lodge stood from 1919 to 1938 before it was destroyed in a flood. Bob and John led a hike to the site on March 7, 2007. Nothing remains of the lodge, but a sequoia tree planted when the lodge was being constructed still stands.

Muir Lodge was a large facility which was used by the Chapter for many events. Getting to the Lodge required hiking several miles from Sierra Madre.

Named for our founder John Muir, ironically Muir passed away shortly before the dedication of the Lodge.
