Letter from the Chair – January 2019

Hello everyone, and Happy New Year!

The Hundred Peaks Section had a fabulous 2018, and your Management Committee is looking forward to building on our success in 2019. Here are a few highlights:

We saw a great number of official hikes in 2018, and some new leaders are stepping up to supplement the many dozens of hikes led by our stalwarts. As I’ve said numerous times, our hike leaders are the backbone of the Section. They are truly HPS’s MVPs, and I salute the time and effort they put into training, planning, and leading hikes to our beautiful and often challenging mountains.

We are lucky to have a great Lookout editor in HPS MComm Secretary Mark S. Allen. The work he puts into the Lookout is evident in every issue.

Our transition to electronic voting passed its first test. While there were a couple of minor hiccups, I believe the system worked generally smoothly and I look forward to seeing it in action again in 2019. As I’ve pointed out previously, the transition follows the other climbing sections and is saving Section resources and allows us to become even more environmentally-friendly.

Speaking of elections, congratulations to William Chen, our newest member of MComm, who replaced Michael McCarthy who himself served for many years with distinction as our Membership Chair and introduced many innovations to the Section’s Membership functions.

Reelected to MComm in the most recent election were Mike Dillenback, Aimee Shocket, and Mark S. Allen. Along with William, they join George Christiansen, Jim Hagar and myself to constitute the 7-person Management Committee for 2019. I look forward to another production year.

Speaking of Mike D. and Aimee, congratulations to them on organizing a fantastic set of Programs in 2018, including the reconstituted Oktoberfest. The amount of thought and work that goes into these programs is quite substantial, and both Mike and Aimee deserve our heart-felt congratulations for their efforts.

The 2019 Program year kicks off with the Annual Banquet, to be held again at the Monrovian Restaurant on Saturday, January 12th. In addition to the usual good cheer, good food, and seeing friends old and new, we have a fine program and another great set of Silent Auction items. Here is a link to the Eventbrite page where you can pay and register.

It’s been an incredible honor to serve as MComm chair for the third year. Of course, serving with a great group of people has made my job easier and more rewarding. On to a great 2019 and I hope to see you at the Banquet!

Happy Trails,

Coby
During our Warren Point Navigation Noodle in December, one of our examiners gave me Gleason’s New Standard Map of the World as a birthday present. This gag gift depicting the earth as flat was inspired discussion we had during a prior navigation noodle about the Flat Earth Society. I had been unaware of the existence of this society and was incredulous that anyone could seriously believe the earth was flat. Sure enough, there are those who assert that a “round earth” is that product of a vast conspiracy promoting “Globularist lies of the new age.” In a year in which President Trump regularly rejected the truth in favor of “tweets, tantrums, and lies” (to quote Sierra Club Executive Director Michael Brune), I commented that the flat earth should be centered on Mar-a-Lago.
As Gleason’s New Standard Map of the World illustrates, maps do not necessarily represent the truth. Indeed, every map has some level of distortion of reality because of the process of representing the three-dimensional world on a piece of paper (or video monitor). As Mark Monmonier noted in How to Lie with Maps (2d ed. 1996), “to present a useful and truthful picture, an accurate map must tell white lies.” Just as a map can tell “white lies,” it can also have big lies. It is important to “appreciate the map’s power as a tool of deliberate falsification and subtle propaganda.” With modern technology and the ability to readily make and alter maps, “serious cartographic lies can appear respectable and accurate.”

An example of map deception is an October tweet by President Trump. As part of his efforts to roll back clean air rules, President Trump attempted to use a map to falsely claim that America has “the Cleanest Air in the World – BY FAR.”

!Map of Clean Air in the World

Not surprisingly, the map itself does not support Trump’s assertion that America has the cleanest air, since many countries outside the Americas have the same color shading. Actual data indicates that eight countries have cleaner air than the United States: Canada, Iceland, Sweden, Finland, Estonia, New Zealand, Australia and Brunei. Moreover, the map used by the president was altered from the original World Health Organization map shown below. The alteration made air quality in the Americas appear largely the same.
Whether offered by the Flat Earth Society or President Trump, it is important to critically examine all maps to ensure that they represent reality. Maps are no more truthful than the individuals who create them. Moreover, even the finest cartographers make blunders. Over the year, I have found many unintentional errors on United States Geological Survey maps. Therefore, critical thinking skills are essential in using a map. If someone tells you the world is an apple, be skeptical.

Rideshare Points

The only Rideshare Point mentioned in this current list of outings is the La Canada Rideshare.

The La Canada Rideshare is located at the intersection of Milmada Drive and Flanders Road; this intersection is found about 0.12 mile north of I-210 and about 50 feet east of Highway 2 (Angeles Crest Hwy). Cars are typically parked here either along Hwy 2 or adjacent to that along Flanders Rd.

Other Rideshare Points commonly used by the Angeles Chapter, along with directions and maps to help find them can be found here:

http://angeles2.sierraclub.org/ltc_ridesharing

Note that these Rideshare points are useful when setting up carpools or meeting spots. They have been used for years by HPS and other Sections, and are generally safe and problem free. Be aware and safe when using them.

Advance Schedule of Hundred Peaks Section Activities

Jan – Apr 2019
Mat Kelliher, HPS Outings Chair

The following is a listing of all HPS Outings submitted and posted to the Angeles Chapter online Schedule of Activities as of December 31, 2018. These outings cover the period ranging from January 2 through April 28, 2019. Note that new HPS outings are added to the online schedule of activities (aka “Campfire Events”) all the time, often only a few days prior to when a trip is scheduled, so if you haven’t found what you’re looking for in this edition of The Lookout, be sure to check for newly added outings on the HPS online Schedule of Activities frequently for last minute additions. Follow this link to the HPS Schedule of Activities site:

http://www.hundredpeaks.org/outings.htm

And if you’re still looking for something other than what’s being offered on any given day with HPS, check out the Angeles Chapter online Schedule of Activities (Campfire Events) for a staggering selection of outings options offered by all of the various Groups, Sections, and Committees of the Angeles Chapter. The Angeles Chapter Schedule of Activities is located here:

http://angeles.sierraclub.org/activities

HPS outings are open to everyone; you don’t need to be a member of either the Sierra Club or the HPS to join us! However, to participate in an outing, you will be required to sign a liability waiver, which you can preview here:

http://angeles.sierraclub.org/sites/angeles.sierraclub.org/files/docs/SignInWaiver.pdf

Unless otherwise indicated, contact the leader of the outing(s) you’d like to join for trip status and details. Leader contact information is included in this edition of The Lookout, as are directions to the rideshare points (if any) referenced herein.

I: Rabbit Ramp-up HIKE #1: Whale Peak (5349 ft) - Join us for the first in a series of five hikes on five consecutive Saturdays. The Rabbit Ramp-up hike series will culminate with a hike to Rabbit Peak in Anza-Borrego Desert State Park. With 23 miles and 8300 feet of elevation gain round trip, Rabbit Peak is the toughest day hike among the Hundred Peaks Section's 281 peaks. The Rabbit Ramp-up series is designed to provide the desert hiking experience and conditioning necessary to handle the "BIG Bunny." Magnificent Whale Peak is in the Anza Borrego Desert State Park. We will encounter and enjoy ancient petroglyphs before hiking cross-country along the desert floor to ascend a scenic canyon. We pass through a grassy meadow on a use trail and then pick our way up to the rocky peak for sweeping views. This will be a moderately paced hike with some Class 2 scrambling on the way to the peak. Total distance should be around 8 miles, and total gain should be about 2300 feet. Bring food, water, hiking footwear, layers, hat and sunblock. Contact Leader for status and details. I: RABBIT RAMP-UP HIKE #4: Martinez Mountain (6560 ft+) and Sheep Mountain (5141 ft) - Join us for the fourth in a series of five hikes on five consecutive Saturdays. The Rabbit Ramp-up hike series will culminate with a hike to Rabbit Peak in Anza-Borrego Desert State Park. With 23 miles and 8300 feet of elevation gain round trip, Rabbit Peak is the toughest day hike among the Hundred Peaks Section's 281 peaks. The Rabbit Ramp-up series is designed to provide the desert hiking experience and conditioning necessary to handle the "BIG Bunny." This is a very strenuous hike in the Santa Rosa Wilderness desert terrain. The Santa Rosa Wilderness is a 72,259-acre wilderness area in Southern California, in the Santa Rosa Mountains of Riverside and San Diego counties. Enjoy views of the surrounding mountains, Palm Desert and the Coachella Valley. Expect around 21 total miles with about 5000 feet of elevation gain. Enjoy views of the surrounding mountains, Palm Desert and the Coachella Valley. Not intended for new hikers. Bring hiking footwear, water, lunch, snacks, layers, hat, sunscreen and headlamp (with extra batteries!). The Rabbit Ramp-up hike series culminates with this hike to Rabbit Peak #2 in Anza-Borrego Desert State Park. With 23 miles and 8300 feet of elevation gain round trip, Rabbit Peak is the toughest day hike among the Hundred Peaks Section's 281 peaks. The Rabbit Ramp-up series was designed to provide the desert hiking experience and conditioning necessary to handle the "BIG Bunny." Spend a special day in Anza-Borrego Desert State Park while hiking the BIG Bunny at a moderate pace. We will also summit Villager Peak during this hike. Very strenuous. Not intended for beginners. Hike will start in the dark and will probably end in the dark, and it will be paced moderately to take around 15.5 hours. The hike will be about 23 miles round trip with around 8300 feet of elevation gain (6950 ft on the way to Rabbit; 1350 ft on the return to the trailhead). Not suitable for beginning hikers. Bring hiking footwear, water, lunch, snacks, layers, hat, headlamp (and extra batteries!). I: Mount Palmer (7,958’), Grapevine Peak (8,738’) - Join us for a nice spring weekend in Death Valley National Park to climb these classic DPS peaks near Beatty, Nevada. Saturday we'll head out at first light from our dry, primitive campsite in Nevada and travel cross country to the south along rugged desert ridgelines and ascend Mt Palmer, passing into California as we do so. We'll do this very strenuous hike at a moderate pace; expect about 11.0 miles and 3,100' of gain for the round trip. Sunday we'll head out from that same dry, primitive campsite and travel west; traveling cross country at a moderate pace we'll ascend along ridgelines to the summit of Grapevine; expect about 6 miles and 2,500' of gain for the round trip. Festive Happy Hour-Pot Luck Saturday night under barely lit, last quarter-moon night skies!!! High Clearance, 4WD vehicles are required to reach our campsite/trailhead. This DPS outing is co-sponsored by WTC and HPS. Email Mat Kelliher at mkelliher746@gmail.com with contact, vehicle type and carpool info, recent conditioning, and experience for trip status and details. Leaders: MAT KELLIHER, STEPHEN MCDONNELL

Chris Spisak and I took George White to get San Ysidro after several unsuccessful attempts. There are two routes to this peak and we opted for the four mile Route 2 rather than the 10 mile Route 1. We started out fine but had to do a constant cross-country and bushwhacking. After awhile we saw the peak and ascended the gully to the saddle and up more bushy slopes to the summit. We saw the peak register but the big rock was kind of steep to retrieve it so we just took George's photos of him bagging the peak. Job well done!

I first met Jackson about four years ago on a “Doggetts’ Hike” with the HPS. He was seeking to branch out to hikes further from the range of his Chinese hiking club. From those earliest days of when he wasn’t counting peaks, to finishing on Liebre Mountain this past Sunday 11/18/18, he has become one of my favorite hiking friends. For all those who know him, Jackson is one of the most thoughtful, funny, positive, determined and yet unassuming hikers around. And now, he’s a list finisher!

In the beginning, as with most people, he wasn’t even counting the peaks. But as we know, they start adding up and along with his peak bagging, he began collecting more hiking buddies and as circles grew they also began to intersect and overlap. He quietly reached 100 peaks without even letting any of his HPS buddies know, not to make a fuss. When he neared 200 peaks, I managed to drag him out on a private hike with my hiking friends to assure he would commemorate. And by the time he reached list finish, 32 people from his various hiking groups came together to drink Cuba Libres atop Liebre and celebrate his momentous achievement. --GPS Jones (Stats & photos by Jin Oak Chung, Jason Park)

Liebre Mountain

On November 18, 2018, the section witnessed Jackson Hsu’s list finish. A large group of over 30 participants and leaders sought out a wonderful hike to Liebre Mountain.

Liebre Mountain is the second highest major peak in the Sierra Pelona Mountains, sometimes called the Liebre Range. “Liebre”, meaning “hare” in Spanish, is a common name for geographical features in the area, and also gives its name to a now-delisted HPS peak, Liebre Twins. Perhaps the most direct etymology for these places comes from the Rancho La Liebre, which was the Mexican land grant in the area in the years preceding California’s annexation to the United States. The rancho is the progenitor property of the now massive Tejon Ranch, currently one of the most extensive private properties in California.

The day started in earnest as we waited for the group to convene. After greetings, we set out on the Pacific Crest Trail towards the top of Liebre Mountain. The well-graded trail, no doubt maintained on a regular basis, was a breeze to climb, and it wasn’t long before we reached a picnic table at a trail campground called “Horse Trail Camp”. After a lengthy break at the picnic table, the group continued along, losing a bit of elevation before embarking on a sustained but gentle climb towards the summit plateau. The plateau has a series of short, rolling hills on top, with oaks interspersed among windswept grassy fields. The summit is a little off the trail.

To celebrate Jackson’s great achievement, people brought all kinds of treats. Nancy Jones made “Cuba Libre” cocktails for everyone, the drink mix consisting of rum and Coca-Cola. Among the various foodstuffs found on top of Liebre Mountain that day were chocolates, cheeses, crackers, pastries, and sandwiches.

After the celebration, the group descended back down the trail. At the cars, everyone congratulated Jackson once again. It was so great to see another HPS hiker reach his goals. As we go into the New Year, let’s fulfill our aspirations to hike, climb, and generally visit more peaks. There is no better way, I think, to experience nature and learn about the history and context of the places we all enjoy so much.
On November 9th Jim Wick and I headed out on the Cactus Spring trail with plans to ascend Sheep Mountain and Martinez Mountain. We took the Cactus Spring Trail with plans to fill up on water at the crossing of Horsethief Creek. We actually filled up in the canyon crossing just before Horsethief not realizing we had not yet reached Horsethief Creek. Oh well, so we had to carry heavy packs for an additional mile. There was plenty of water flowing at both crossings. The trail was easy to follow all the way to Cactus Spring where we dropped our heavy packs and dawned light summit packs. We then headed for Sheep Mountain. The cross country travel to Sheep was relatively easy as the terrain is fairly open although steep and a little loose. Nice views of San Gorgonio, San Jacinto, Little San Bernadinos, Martinez and Toro from the peak and we could clearly see the gully we would be ascending to get up on Martinez the following day. After returning to Cactus Spring we set up camp for the night. Temps for the day were in the mid 60s and overnight it dropped into the mid 30s. We headed off to climb Martinez just after sunrise partly because we planned on getting going early but mainly to get warmed up. The Cactus spring trail is not as easy to follow after Cactus Spring but still possible if you pay attention. Once it turns and heads up the wash it is not so obvious but at that point all that is needed is to follow the wash up to the steep rocky gully up Martinez. Just before reaching the bottom of the rocky gully we stopped and had our breakfast as we were now warm enough. The Martinez summit block is very impressive. I managed to get up to where the DPS register is but did not get up the last step to the very top. A little too risky for me. The view from Martinez is simply awesome. From here we headed back down the way we came up, packed up our camp and hiked back out. I really enjoyed this trip as we did not have to rush to get both peaks in. We had the pleasure of a garter snake sighting on our hike in and a tarantula on the way up Sheep. I enjoyed the journey as much as getting on the peak.

San Antonio Ridge Traverse

( Baldy to Iron )

- Part One -

On Monday morning, May 11th, Jason, the passionate hiker, phoned to me asking if I wanted to take the "San Antonio Ridge Traverse" as a private hike on this next Sunday. "Iron to Baldy" hike! I admit to some apprehension over this hiking route.

Some time ago a group of us had turned around on this course. Now, eight years later, young Jason, who is 19 years younger than me at 66 years old, suggests this hike. What to do? To go or not to go? Jason, Sunny, Susan, Ilwoo, and me are the five Sierra Club members who can go on a hike, but none of us have made it on this course before. Also Susan and I were colleagues of this hike that failed eight years ago. In my case, I have a tremendous respect for Gunsight Notch!

Before I get older, I want to hike this course. Jason and Sunny finished the HPS Peak List of 281 peaks, and some 40 SPS peaks. They have also taken the Sierra Club WTC course. After some hesitation, I finally agree, 'Yes, let's do it!' I have to considered my age, if not now, there will not be a chance again. We agree to the condition is that if anyone says he or she does not want continue to the middle of it, we will give up on the hike without any objection. Jason joyfully agrees with that "the best thing I do is turn around in the middle."

After accepting, I informed to Ilwoo and Susan of the plan of hiking and asks if they want to participate. Ilwoo has a bad knee, but Susan is willing to accompany us. Consequently, four people become a team.

The route we had in mind in the beginning was 'Iron to Baldy'. We will meet at 02:30 am in front of my resident in LA Korea Town to go to Heaton Flats and start hiking. In Manker Flats, which finishes the hike, it is a proposal to ask someone for transportation beforehand. However, this plan is changed to "Baldy to Iron" according to Ignacia's recommendation. "It is not a good idea to go through dangerous notches in a situation where you have exhausted the energy to climb the Iron, and it is never a good idea to reach the east of San Antonio Ridge and climb the 2500 feet altitude steeply towards West Baldy." We are willing to accept it because it is a very rational and realistic view. Later I find out how lucky this Ignacia's idea was.
After eating, at 0230 hrs, three people gather in front of my house. All four of us are riding in Sunny's car, reaching the parking lot of Manker Flats in the darkness. There is no vehicle other than us. As soon as get out of car we pose for a picture of the group in front of the trail sign at 0350 hours.

I have been up Baldy more than 70 times so far but not with a heavy backpack. I notice the difference. I feel weary and my shoulder is sore. Is it because of age? Is it because I did not sleep well? I request for my team members understanding on my slow pace. I worry that I might have the energy to cope with the hike today. I think I never climbed Baldy harder and slower than today. Even though today was the slowest pace in my Baldy hiking history, but today is the day attained Baldy summit at its earliest time of the day. In the vicinity of the summit, two bighorn sheep are lingering through the land to find something. One of them looks small, so I guess probably a baby and a mother. Seeing this sheep, we share the word that today's our hiking might be very lucky. From this point, my body and mental condition are improving.
